WANAMAKER THE ADVERTISER.

The Great Merchant Attributes His Great Success to Newspaper Advertising.

There is no man in America better equipped by actual experience than John Wanamaker, to talk about the value of advertising to retail merchants, small as well as great. When Mr. Wanamaker began business more than half a century ago, his store was probably smaller and had a smaller trade than any one of the retail merchants whom he addressed on the subject of advertising at the opening of the pure food exposition in Philadelphia. Mr. Wanamaker has often told the story himself how he originated the custom, now universal, of delivering the goods which his customers purchased. He carried the goods himself and when he had more than his arms full, he used a wheelbarrow in delivering them. As fast as he made any profit he expended it in advertising. In a very few years he was known as the largest advertiser in Philadelphia, and had by far the largest retail clothing store, much larger than the one which had long been the leader in the trade and in which Mr. Wanamaker as a youth had been a clerk.

In his address Mr. Wanamaker said that the first necessity to success in retail trade is of course good merchandise, and added "quite as much a necessity to a business that is to keep up a healthy growth is good advertising If you have in your shop exactly what 500,000 people of this city want, but only 500 of them know you have it, the care and energy you have expended in maintaing a stock of high quality do little good either to your customers or to your own business. The satisfaction of knowing that your name stands for good merchandise is a great thing certainly, but it is not apt to be greatly profitable unless the public at large knows it also."

The man who at the beginning of his business delivered personally the goods his customers bought and spent his profits in increasing his advertising until he became known as the biggest advertiser in the country, causing all enterprising merchants who did not want to be left behind to imitate his example, before he had hardly past the meridian of life was known as the foremost retail merchant in America, a position that he still holds.

Before the city dailies had general circulation throughout the country districts, Mr. Wanamaker used the country weeklies as an advertising medium. During that period of development he was the most extensive advertiser among the Reporter's patrons.

HANDICAPPING WOMAN'S WORK.

New Law Handicapping Woman as a Competition in Labor Market.

One of the first effects of the Pennsylvania law eliminating woman's hours of work is that of handicapping her as a competitor in the labor market. The law forbids any woman employed out of her home to work more than six days in any one week, more than ten hours in any one day, or more than fifty-four hours in six consecutive days. Hotel managers find that the handicap thus imposed renders women's work in their industry unprofitable as compared with that of men, and upward of 500 women may be dismissed from service in the hotels of Philadelphia alone.

This is not the first time that labor statutes have had an effect directly contrary to what was intended. It is right that women should be protected from the grinding competition that engenders sweat-shops and foul tenements and dangerous factories. They have a right to every security the law can give to their personal welfare. When, however, statutes undertake to limit their labor, the inevitable result is a limit to their producing power and a consequent loss to their economic value. They are thus hobbled in their efforts and lose in competition with men.

There is no question of the excellence of the intent of the framers of the statute. Public sentiment in our time is well-nigh unanimous in favor of lifting every burden possible from overworked women. But sentiment cannot do everything. Statutes must be reasonable.

Opposing Liquor Licenses.

It appears there will be a remonstrance filed against each of the hotels in Bellefonte, praying that no license to sell intoxicating liquors be granted by the court It is somewhat amusing to notice the attitude of the newspapers in Bellefonte on the subject, since it is just a few years ago that a similar movement in Centre Hall was discredited in their columns, the traffic upheld, and the local boozehisters encouraged to shoot up the town. There is no inclination to question their present sincerity, but it is undisputed that, without exception, these same papers made themselves appear ridiculous when they desired to make the southside people believe that the future success of this community depended solely upon the continuation of the liquor traffic. But it is better to get in sympathy with the good people late than not at all. If the newspapers in Bellefonte are really in sympathy with the no-license movement, the traffic will not stand long in Centre county.

Why Fresh Eggs Are Scarce.

But why does not the hen lay today? The answer is just as simple as the answer to the question why the price has gone up: The hen has something else to do. She has been active all summer with the false idea that she was raising her brood of chicks, which is her natural function in life, and she is now engaged in the making of her winter clothes, which must be ready before the very cold weather sets in. Unlike her rich owner she cannot go into the market and buy a ready-made suit and continue her daily pursuit without interruption; but she must shed her old suit and raise a new one on her own back, oil it and iron it as it grows, and at the same time store up energy to keep her well and strong during the extreme cold weather.

Sustained Opinion.

The superior court has sustained the opinion of Judge George S. Criswell of Venango county, in refusing a motion for a new trial in what is known as the Franklin Eagles' case, in which H. H. Krotzer, steward of the club, was convicted of selling liquor without a license. Unless the attorneys for the club can induce the supreme court to consider the case, Krotzer will have to pay a fine of $500 and undergo an imprisonment of three months in the county jail, which was the sentence imposed by Judge Criswell. This is the minimum sentence under the law. The Eagles' case is one of the numerous prosecutions against the so called sideboard clubs in Franklin and Oil City.

Will Erect a Modern Barn.

The Odd Fellows of central Pennsylvania are planning to have a modern barn erected at the Sunbury orphanage to take the place of the one recently destroyed by fire. An appeal will be made to all the lodges in the district for sufficient funds for the new barn, which will be modern in every respect. It is planned by the directors to have one of the finest buildings of its kind in the state. The total loss on the old building was $7,500, upon which there was an insurance of but $2,800.

P. R. R. EXHIBIT CARS.

Fine Display of Products of Pennsylvania Soil—Section Devoted Exclusively to Dairy Interest.

The exhibition cars carried over the Pennsylvania Railroad by that company were sidetracked in Centre Hall on Monday and Tuesday. It was a fine exhibit in every sense of the word of the products raised in Pennsylvania and adjoining states. The railroad company has established these cars to prove to the farmers just what the soil of the state will produce if given proper attention. Pennsylvania has always ranked high in agricultural lines and fruit growing, and the present productiveness can be doubled when our farmers and fruit growers better fit themselves by making a thorough study of the soil and do intensive farming.

These exhibition cars not only contained grain, fruit and vegetables, but farm literature to enlighten all how to begin the work and carry it through to a successful termination. One car contained a complete outfit of a model dairy, which business is one of the most profitable for the farmer. There are many acres of ideal dairy land in Centre county today that could be made to pay a big profit if properly developed.

The railroad company is not conducting this campaign exclusively for the benefit of the farmers, but with the idea of increasing its own business by aiding farmers to raise larger crops. The farmer of intelligence who visited and studied the exhibits cannot fail to have been benefitted, and will put into practice the knowledge acquired. His methods will be copied by his neighbors, and in this way the good effects of the demonstration will go on for years to come.

The exhibits were in charge of Dr. W. P. Phillipy of Carlisle, a representative of the State Department of Agriculture, and W. R. McKnight, who represented the railroad company. Dr. Phillipy is a practical man, and thoroughly acquainted with agricultural conditions throughout the state. He was always ready to give information, and answered definite questions in a definite manner. The exhibit and information imparted by these men ought to give inspiration to many.

Post No Bills.

The man who goes about posting bills must acquaint himself with a recent act of the legislature if he wishes to avoid trouble. The new law reads thus:

No person shall paste, paint, brand, stamp, or in any manner whatsoever place upon or attach to any building, fence, bridge, gate, outbuilding, or property, any written, printed, painted, or other advertisement, bill, notice, sign card or poster, without having first obtained the written consent of the ower or tenant lawfully in possession or occupancy thereof. Provided that nothing herein shall be so construed as to prevent the posting of any notice required by law or order of Court to be posted.

The penalty is not less than $5 00 or more than $20.00.

Elk Killed in Clinton County.

An elk weighing almost three hundred and fifty pounds shot through the hip and shoulder was found almost dead above Orviston. The carcass was dressed and sent to the Lock Haven hospital. The elk was one of twenty-five elks liberated a year ago on Big Run in Beech Creek township, Clinton county. The herd was shipped from Yellow Stone park, and were then about six months old. Eight of the elk died shortly after being set free, the one in question making the ninth, leaving sixteen living so far as is known.

Leading in Egg Contest.

The Sunday North American is interesting reading to all interested in egg production, and especially to Charles D. Bartholomew, whose pen of five single-comb white leghorn pullets is leading in the international egg-laying contest being conducted by the North American. The second week of the contest closed on the 14th of November, and resulted in Bartholomew being in the lead by five eggs. The first week the five birds laid ten eggs, the second, seventeen and the third twenty-five eggs. The individual records for the second week being: 5, 3, 1, 5, 2.

Next to the Bartholomew pen is that of Tom Barron, one of eight Englishmen who is in the contest. Last year Barron was the only Englishman represented, and he won over all competitors, and this gave his business a world-wide boost. The fact that Mr. Bartholomew has entered a winter egg producing pen, even if he should fall back in the race later on, is highly gratifying to him, and especially so since his nearest competitor is in the foreign land.

MESSAGES FROM THE FAR WEST.

Reporter Readers Contribute a Few Lines to Make the Paper More Readable.

Los Angeles, Calif.
November 20, 1913

Editor Reporter:

Under date of Oct. 10, I notified your office of my change of address.

Evidently there has been an error somewhere, as I have received two papers weekly; my wife says one is for her, as she will not have to wait until I have read it, and I will say this, while she has never been in the State of "Penney", she knows more people (and their daily doings) in Centre county, than I, who was born and raised there.

Respectfully yours,
C. P. SWINT.

Roseburg, Oregon.

Editor Reporter:

Since writing to you I have become a partner with my brother-in-law in the retail dairy business in Roseburg. We handle about ninety-five gallons of milk per day, and cannot supply the demand. Wholesale milk is selling at thirty cents per gallon, and nine and ten cents per quart at retail. Roseburg is booming, and there are many buildings being erected.

DAVID E HENNIGH
November 20, 1913.

W. V. Harshbarger, proprietor of the Roopsburg Egg Farm, where the white leghorn—both the American and English birds—hold sway, writes the Reporter thus:

We are feeling rather chipper over our crop of white leghorns. There are two thousand of them, and all in the pink of condition.

We have just imported from England, five pullets and a cockerel. These come from Thomas Barron, who now holds the world's egg record. The birds are all pedigreed, the cockerel's dam having laid two hundred and sixty eggs in a single year, and the pullets from two hundred and and fifty-six to two hundred and sixty eggs in one year.

The imported leghorns are much larger than our American leghorns, and weigh at least two pounds more, and are the busiest lot we ever saw. The birds were on the road fourteen days, and on the second day after arriving the first egg was laid, which speaks well for their vitality.

In a business letter to the Reporter Harry M. Barrack, of the firm of Barrick & Hostetter, proprietors of the Farmers Roller Mills at Union Mills Station, near Belleville, writes thus:

Business is good, and we look for a better trade this winter. Corn meal trade is good here.

Mrs. Stiver Hurt in Fall.

On Sunday evening Mrs. William H. Stiver had the misfortune to fall and break the bone in one of her limbs near the hip. The fracture was reduced on Monday by Drs. Foster and Hayes.

The accident occurred at the United Evangelical church, where Mrs. Stiver attended the services. She had stepped onto the platform at the entrance, and then waited for a friend. To step aside to permit others to pass, she fell from the platform, a distance of a about three feet.

Mrs. Carner of Hublersburg, a sister, and a trained nurse are doing all they can to comfort the unfortunate lady.

Powell Holds Fast to Funds.

Until the Dauphin county court has decided the constitutionality of the legislature's appropriating auto license revenues to the highway department for road improvement without mentioning the specific appropriation, no money will be paid for bounties on noxious animals and birds or for propagation of game from the hunters' license fund.

A. W. Powell, auditor general, says the principle in the two cases is exactly the same. The controversy hinges upon the right of the legislature to make appropriations except by specific appropriations from money in the treasury. In 1909 a bill was passed forbidding appropriations from funds "not otherwise appropriated," because the old practice had led to abuse.

The highway department suit will be argued early in January, it is believed, and until a decision is rendered both funds will be held up.

800 Bushel Potato Crop.

F. A. Carson, Esq., of Potters Mills, is something of a potato farmer, and this year has a crop of eight hundred bushels in his cellar. The tubers will be sold direct to the consumer in the Lewistown district and at State College. Mr. Carson is making farming pay him handsomely, and much of his success is due to the fact that he is mixing knowledge and muscle in the farm work.

DEATHS.

The sudden and of course very unexpected death of Mrs. Jacob Gephart of Rebersburg, on Sunday afternoon, was a shock to that community, where the deceased was a well-known and highly respected resident for a number of years. She had been a sufferer from dropsy for a year, and since early fall her condition had not been at all hopeful, but no one anticipated that she would be called from this world in the manner that she was. She ate her Sunday dinner with the family, and was apparently in her usual health, but before two o'clock she was a corpse.

Mrs. Gephart before marriage was Miss Royer, and was aged a little over fifty-nine years. Two brothers, Benjamin and Jacob, both of Madisonburg survive, as do also her husband, and six of her eleven children, namely: Mrs. A. R. Shroyer, Maple Park, Illinois; Mrs. Ada Grenninger, Mrs Stella Diehl, Samuel, Harry and Charles, all of Rebersburg, the latter two being at home.

The interment will take place today (Thursday) at Rebersburg, Rev. G. A Stauffer, pastor of the Reformed church, to be the officiating minister.

Mrs. Susanna Wagner, widow of the late John M. Wagner, died at her home in Milesburg. She was aged almost ninety years. Her maiden name was Hahn. She and her husband lived in Bellefonte, prior to 1875, at which time Mr. Wagner erected the flouring mill at Milesburg and moved to that place, and died there in 1892

Six of her ten children survive, namely: Mrs. John M. Keichline of Bellefonte; John C. Wagner of Barnesboro; Mrs. Peter F. Keichline of Bellefonte; Mrs. James Weaver of Milesburg; Mrs. Lewis Wallace of Bellefonte, and Miss Ella at home. She was one of a family of seven children only one of whom survive, namely: David Hahn of Clinton county.

Martin Luther Miller died at his home at Baileyville, after a protracted illness from a complication of diseases. He was aged sixty-nine years on the 14th of March last. Deceased was a native of Centre county and for years followed the occupation of a woodsman. For the past four years, however, he had been incapacited He was married in 1867 to Miss Emma L. Craine, who survives with these children: A. L., N. P., Myra C. of Altoona, and Calvin C. of Pittsburg. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Lizzie Grazier of Warriorsmark. He was a member of the Presbyterian church of Upper Spruce Creek Valley. He also served his country in the Civil war. The funeral took place Friday morning. Interment in Graysville cemetery.

Prominent Granger Dead.

Hon. Jerome T. Ailman died at his home in Walker township, Perry county, last week. He held the office of secretary of the Pennsylvania State Grange, and was prominent in the councils of the order. He was also a member of the State Legislature, and an aggresive member on the floor. He was aged sixty-four years.

Thank-offering Service.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society connected with the local Lutheran church will hold its annual thank-offering service on Sunday evening. One feature of the program will be seventy-five views thrown on a screen, showing the work in the India mission field.

The Little Industries.

The Centre Hall Evaporating Company expended over $8000 in its business this season. The company made a ready market for apples during the entire season, and but for their efforts many hundreds of bushels of this fruit would have decayed in the orchards. We too often fail to appreciate the good these little industries do in our community, and no one should stand in the way or discourage the investing of money in the establishing of small business affairs. We cannot have large industries in Centre Hall, but we can have smaller ones. The Centre Hall Evaporating Company's plant is not an elaborate affair by any means, but since it has been in operation it has handled for the farmers of this community a good many thousand dollars worth of fruit. The effort to reestablish a creamery in Centre Hall is another move that should be encouraged, not discouraged. While you may be honest in your belief, your judgement that the venture will be a failure may be based on lack of knowledge; others may have much better business acumen, and these are a better guide. The man who stands in the way of improvements, large or small, in his community ought to be placarded.

Give thanks today.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS

Thanksgiving Day.

The cigarette is too frequently puffed by youngsters about town. Take the Q.

Miss Wetzell, a nurse from the Bellefonte hospital, is taking care of Mrs. W. H Stiver.

The stork visited Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bradford, and left an heir at their respective homes.

Harry Harper changed the date of the sale of household goods from Saturday, 29 h, to Saturday, December 6th. See sale register.

Borough council will reorganize the first day of the new year. The business of the retiring council must be transacted prior to that date.

The Lutheran church in Millheim, having been remodeled and refurnished, will be reopened with appropriate services on Sunday, November 30.

It is all right to say that the next election will be the spring primary in April of 1914, but please let it stop at that. Real trouble will be here soon enough.

If you have the chink, do your Christmas shopping now. And this is a reminder that the advertising of Christmas goods is postponed too long. Advertise now.

Farmers have been having most delightful weather in which to perform the fall work. The corn is now all in, and the plow on many farms is busy turning sod for the 1914 corn crop.

Do not miss hearing Senator Burkett, in Grange Arcadia, on Saturday evening. The Senator hails from Nebraska, and when in the house of representatives and in the United States senate was the youngest man in the body. He is an extraordinary man. Go hear him.

The lecture on Saturday night ought to appeal to all who are willing to give an evening to intellectual improvement. The subject on which Senator Burkett will lecture indicates that his talk will be lively enough to please all, except those who are inclined to think all lectures dry.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church of this place will hold a bazaar, during the day and evening of December 13 and 20, at the home of Mrs. T. L. Moore, for the benefit of the Methodist church. Both fancy and useful articles will be on sale suitable for Christmas gifts, also home made cakes, rolls, candy, etc. The patronage of the public will be thankfully received. **

After a residence at Elizabeth, Illinois, for fifteen years, Dr. Domer G. Smith sold his practice, office fixtures, horses, buggies, touring car and his home, and will locate in Freeport, Illinois. The Elizabeth Weekly News in giving an account of the professional man's intentions of leaving that town, among other things says: "There have been few men in this section of Illinois that have been a greater power for good, a greater leader, or a better citizen, than Dr. D. G. Smith. He is that type of man that no community can afford to lose, and any city can be proud to gain. Elizabeth will feel its loss keenly.

H. H. Garver, son of E. S. Garver, and the junior editor of the Worth County (Missouri) Times, has been appointed a commercial agent with headquarters at Chicago by Secretary of Commerce Redfield. The senior Mr. Garver is a native of Potter township, and got his inspiration, mechanical, political and otherwise, in the Reporter office, way back in the early seventies when the Reporter was printed on the second floor of the meat market building, now owned by the local lodge of Old Fellows. The writer is pleased to note the advancement of his son, with whom he is also personally acquainted, and, by the way, is a young man of fine qualities.

The musical on Wednesday evening of last week in Grange Arcadia was well attended by young people from the south side of the valley. Among others present from that section were Misses Grace Neff, Ruth Bower, Grace Bower, Sarah Horner, Grace Horner, Myra Rockey, Bertha Miller, Mr. and Mrs. John E Rishel, Mr. and Mrs S. C. Brungart, Wilbur Dashem, Frank Dashem, James Foust, James Raymond, Fred Raymond, Elmer Miller, Harry Neff, John Neff, Hoy Neff, Homer Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Ashbridge Thomas; from Spring Mills, Misses Orpha Gramley, Rosie Smith and Mable Brown, and Theodore Brown and Ray Roseman; Linden Hall, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. McClellan, Carl McClellan, William Swab.

HUERTA'S MESSAGE TO HIS CONGRESS

Defends His Acts as Dictator and Imposes New Tax.

U. S. NOT REPRESENTED

All Of the Various Types Dominating Factors In the Success Of Future Campaigns—How They Can Be Utilized.

St. Louis, Mo.—"In my opinion the newly developed art of aviation will not only tend to limit the duration and scope of hostile operations, but also aid in the control of the seas, one of the elements contributing materially to the power and prosperity of a nation."

Secretary Daniels made this statement here in the course of a public address upon aeronautics, in which he discussed the conquest of the air by the United States Army and Navy and the part aerial navigation will take in future wars.

"The potentialities of the aeroplane, when applied to the art of war, are extremely great and its proper use will undoubtedly be a dominating factor in the success of future campaigns," said he. "The principal roles of the aeroplane in naval warfare will be for scouting and reconnoissance work and for offensive destructive operations against hostile fleets and fortifications. Rash indeed will be the commander of an opposing fleet who would head his vessels against the fleet or coast of an enemy possessing a number of these vicious wasps of war, and unfortunate indeed would be a commander who did not have ready at his call this means of obtaining supremacy in the air.

"A torpedo costs $8,000, and frequently is lost in practice through deflection in direction that makes it impossible to follow it from the crow's nest of a ship. But an aerial scout can follow a torpedo's course unerringly by watching it from above. The price of one torpedo will pay for several flying machines. Experts say mines are easily 'picked up' or located by aerial scouts. One little mine may wreck a $10,000,000 battleship. A flying machine, costing but a small sum, would mean the ship's safety. The dirigible balloon, likewise, will play as important a part in naval warfare as the aeroplane, and possibly will have a greater effect on naval strategy and tactics."

FEDERAL CONTROL OF WATER POWERS

Resolution Adopted By Conservation Congress.

HAD A STORMY SESSION

Private Ownership Advocates Make Vigorous Fight, But Develop a Hopeless Minority. Bolters Fail.

Washington.—Monopolistic control of water power in private hands was denounced with a declaration that no water power rights owned by the public ever should be removed from public ownership by the National Conservation Congress, just adjourned here.

The climax of the water power fight which had agitated the congress for several days came after the committee on resolutions, to which had been referred divergent reports from the waterway committee, submitted that the matter had been taken from its hands by action of the convention in accepting general principles upon which the waterways committee agreed. No mention of the majority or minority reports, which differed as to State and Federal control of water power projects, was made in the resolutions committee report to the convention.

When the report had been read, Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States and father of the minority waterways report in the congress, moved as an amendment to the resolutions' report a declaration of principles on waterways control, similar to the ideas in the minority report signed by himself, former Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Joseph N. Teat, of Oregon. This amendment was adopted by a vote of 317 to 96, after one offered by Representative Burnett, of Alabama, which injected into the resolution the matter of State control of waterway projects had been defeated, 378 to 132.

The Pinchot amendment, approved after a stormy session during which repeated attempts were made to adjourn by some Southern and Western delegates, declared that monopolistic control of water power in private hands was swiftly increasing in the United States "far more rapidly than public control thereof," that increasing "concentration of water power in some hands" was accompanied by growing control over the power-consuming agencies, the public service companies of the country.

65,000 FACTORY WORKERS OUT.

Strike Protest Against Prosecution For Quitting.

St. Petersburg.—A general strike of factory hands in St. Petersburg and throughout Northern Russia started Wednesday, 65,000 laying down their tools. The movement is a protest by the workmen against the trial of some employes of the Buchow works on a charge of illegally quitting their work.

SIXTH ARSON RING CONVICTION.

Chicagoan Found Guilty Of Hiring Confessed Incendiary.

Chicago.—The sixth conviction in the "arson ring" prosecution was obtained here when Isaac La Bow was found guilty of hiring John Daniels, a confessed incendiary, to set fire to La Bow's furniture store. Joseph Clarke, a public fire insurance adjuster, tried with La Bow, was acquitted.

FINED $25 FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

Girl Had Charged Brother-in-Law With Wronging Her.

Huntington, W. Va.—Letha Perdue, the 16-year-old Wayne county girl who shot her brother-in-law, James Kendrick, dead, alleging that he had wronged her and who was convicted of involuntary manslaughter at Wayne, was fined $25 by Judge Wilkinson. Following the Court's action, the girl was rushed to her home, near Kellogg, where her aged mother is dying.

MOULTHROP LED A LIVELY PACE

Sensational Career of Man Who Threatened President.

IS ARRESTED FOR FORGERY

Was a High Flyer On a Modest Salary and Maintained Three Expensive Establishments Until He Was Sent To the Penitentiary.

Washington.—The United States grand jury indicted Henry Moulthrop, discharged secretary of Senator Lewis, of Illinois, on the charge of forgery of a $240 check and theft of a valuable diamond ring. Moulthrop, who was arrested in New York is the man whom Senator Lewis charged with having written the Lewis-Pindell letter, offering Henry M. Pindell, of Peoria, Ill., the ambassadorship to Russia for a year.

New York.—Sidney Moulthrop, the stenographer arrested here on a charge of forgery made by Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, waived extradition proceedings at his examination and asserted that he wanted to return to Washington without delay to stand trial. He was turned over to United States Marshal Henkel for conveyance to the national capital.

Philadelphia. — Sidney Moulthrop, former stenographer for United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis, who was arrested in New York after he had sent letters to President Wilson threatening to "expose" the Chief Executive, and one of the most remarkable careers of any person living in Philadelphia prior to his arrest on a charge of embezzling $60,000 from George Wood, the local millionaire.

TEXAS READY TO FIGHT.

Won't Wait For Washington To Act If Mexicans Start Trouble, Says Colquitt.

Austin, Texas.—"In the event Mexicans start any trouble we will protect our citizens and not wait for Washington to act," declared Gov. O. B. Colquitt after a conference with Adjutant-General Hutchings.

While no official statement was given out, it is known that the Texas National Guard is in readiness to answer quickly any call which might be made.

The conference was the outcome of a threat by Mexicans to make Texas "answer to the whole Mexican people" unless mercy was shown Mexican ammunition smugglers charged with murder.

Governor Colquitt did not apprise Washington. He said that during a recent outbreak along the Mexican border Federal troops did not act until the Texas Rangers had been called out.

GUNS DISPLACE POWDER PUFFS.

Popular Belief Regarding Chicago Police Women Dispelled.

Chicago.—Revolvers take the place of powder puffs in the handbags carried by Chicago's 10 policewomen. It had been generally supposed that the police women were unarmed, when Officer Clara Olsen was discovered carefully oiling her firearm. "I guess we might as well tell the truth," she said. "The revolvers form the powder puff that might be supposed to be in the bags which we carry in our left hands."

COST TAMMANY $200,000.

Its Unsuccessful Mayoralty Campaign Was Very Expensive.

Albany, N. Y.—It cost the Democratic committee of New York county more than $200,000 to wage its unsuccessful mayoralty campaign, according to the statement of election receipts and expenditures of Philip F. Donohue, the treasurer, filed with the Secretary of State. Receipts totaled over $150,000. Among them are listed two "loans" made by Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall.

CONTRIBUTE TO PROSPERITY.

Also Orders Issue Of Small Bills. His Effusiveness To O'Shaughnessy Excites General Comment.

Mexico City.—His face showing none of that whimsical humor which sometimes characterizes him, President Huerta appeared before the new Mexican Congress and read his message.

Few Mexican Presidents have read at the formal opening sessions of Congress shorter messages and few have confined themselves so entirely to one subject. It was nothing more than a terse explanation of his motives for dissolving the old Congress, most of the members of which are now in the penitentiary, accused of sedition.

There were no extraneous frills to the session. It was more in the nature of a little business meeting of the President and the men converted into lawmakers during the recent so-called elections.

The message General Huerta bore to them was in its essence an admonition. The incident he related to them of the dissolution of the previous Congress was one by which it was intimated they might be guided in their conduct as Congressmen.

The message, as stated in the forecast, was chiefly a review of the political events since October 10 last; a plea of justification for the assumption of dictatorial powers, the dissolution of Congress and the imprisonment of the Deputies; a denunciation of the latter for alleged harboring of treasonable designs; a demand for a complete vindication at the hands of the new Congress and ratification of his acts, and a rather bombastic and stilted protestation of patriotism. That Huerta would promptly get the ratification seemed to be beyond doubt. The forecast was correct, even to the quoting of Napoleon.

The reply of the Speaker, Eduardo Tamariz, was brief. Not all the Congressmen were present.

Huerta, who appeared in evening clothes, was applauded only upon his arrival and departure, when the members of Congress and the spectators rose to their feet and added "Vivas" to the handclapping.

The only country not represented in the gallery reserved for diplomats was the United States. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the Charge d'Affaires, acting under instructions, was absent from the session.

25 ENTOMBED IN MINE.

Men Trapped By Explosion In Colliery At Acton, Ala.

Acton, Ala.—An explosion in No. 2 mine of the Alabama Fuel and Iron Company entombed between 25 and 40 miners, according to estimates of company officials.

Of the victims some are white and some are negroes, as the mine employed laborers of both races. The normal quota of employes is 70 men, but Tuesday was pay day at this mine and some did not report for work.

The first rescue parties who entered the mine, searching for any who might be alive, reported that they had passed several dead bodies lying beside the tramway of the sloping entrance shaft.

Acton Mine No. 2, which lies in Shelby county, on a branch of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, has been considered one of the best equipped in the district. It has a single track slope and uses an 18-foot fan, with the split air system. So far as ascertained, the mine workings were not much damaged by the explosions, the cause of which has not been determined, and it is expected that the work of removing the living, if any, and the dead will be speedily accomplished.

PREMONITION BORNE OUT.

Sailor Swept Overboard To Death In Heavy Gale.

Boston.—How a sailor's premonition of death was borne out was told by Capt. John Duffoe, of the schooner Frances V. Sawyer, in from Charleston, S. C. John Johnson, a seaman, tried to desert the schooner just before she left Charleston, fashioning a raft from lumber carried as cargo. He had nearly reached shore when caught. After being returned to the vessel he told the captain that he knew he was going to die if he made the trip. Three days later he was swept overboard to his death in a heavy gale.

NECK BROKEN 2 YEARS; DIES.

Recovered From Injury, But Stomach Trouble Is Fatal.

New Rochelle, N. Y.—While in a fair way to make good his promise to "fool the surgeons" made more than two years ago, when his neck was broken as the result of diving into shallow water, Waldorf Miller, 19 years old, died from stomach trouble. He had so far recovered from his injury that three weeks ago he was permitted to leave his wheel-chair and walk a few steps.

TYPHOID GERMS IN MUSHROOMS

New Way of Getting Fever Into Town Once Stricken

SAME INFECTION IN MILK

Night Soil a Menace to Coatesville, as It Has Been to Other Localities—State Expert Arrives to Assist Investigation.

Coatesville.—Eating raw mushrooms from a field close to where night soil from Coatesville had been hauled caused the family of Frank V. Pratt, of Sciousca, near here, to be stricken with typhoid fever. Mr. Pratt, his wife, child and hired man are now convalescing from the malady, with which they were very ill.

The wild mushrooms had been gathered in a field. The family ate them raw, and later developed typhoid fever. The prevalence of typhoid fever recently hereabouts has become alarming. There are 16 case in the town, and the disease is claiming new victims daily.

The State was asked to assist in the investigation, and an officer from the State Health Department arrived here to investigate with the local Board of Health, whose members are of the opinion that the cause of the continued outbreak is to be found in milk brought from dairies on farms where odorless excavators have been depositing night soil from Coatesville cesspools, as was the case near the diseased mushrooms.

The Board of Health has advanced the theory that the night soil first contaminated the water supply on farms where it was deposited, and that the germs then found their way into milk, all the receptacles for which were washed in contaminated water.

Suspicion is directed to the milk supply of at least two dairies; but all milk dealers' supply hereabouts will be tested at once.

Coatesville has not rightly recovered from its typhoid epidemic of two years ago, due, it was said, to water taken from a race into which hospital sewage emptied when the borough's supply was short.

Five Deer Shot.

New Germantown.—Buck deer in Toboyne township had a hard time to escape the hunter's bullet since the season opened. Four have been killed in Toboyne township and one in Jackson township, besides a doe, which was found lying dead on the Shultz Ridge, near Center Square, since the season opened. R. O. Hoy, of Chambersburg, who is visiting Ranger Koontz, shot one, and George Gibbons and Clyde Smith, a boy about 16 years old, shot one near Union Schoolhouse. The first shot from the Smith boy's gun knocked off part of the deer's horns, bringing him to the ground, but the next shot went through his neck. On the same day B. F. Smith sent a ball entirely through a large buck, but failed to get it.

Only Library of Its Class.

The only Carnegie library thus far given to an educational institution of its class was dedicated at Perkiomen Seminary, and Dr. O. S. Kriebel, the principal, is being congratulated upon the beauty and utility of the building. Addresses were delivered by President Hibben, of Princeton University, and former Governor S. W. Pennypacker, with responses and greetings by Bayard Henry and Dr. J. M. Anders, of Philadelphia; Edwin K. Schultz, Boyertown; Maxwell H. Kratz and the Rev. George W. Lutz, Pennsburg.

Hot Metal Entwines Boy.

Johnstown.—A white-hot bar jumped the "run" in the Gautier department of the Cambria Steel Company, and writhing like a snake, entered the window of the weighmaster's office and entwined itself about the body of Herman Rabner, a 15-year-old messenger boy. Thomas R. Young, a foreman, pulled the boy from the embrace of the bar, and both were sent to a hospital, the boy in a serious condition.

Hawk's Talons Tear Him.

Sharon.—John Nolan, proprietor of the Sharon Hotel, had a desperate battle with a large chicken hawk. The hawk crashed through a plate-glass window and when Nolan attempted to capture it the bird attacked him. The big hawk was getting the better of the battle when guests at the hotel came to Nolan's rescue. Nolan's face and neck were cut to ribbons.

Claims on Suicide's Funds.

West Chester.—Before R. S. Gawthorp, auditor in the estate of Col. Gibbons Gray Cornwell, of this borough, who, in August, 1912, committed suicide while under arrest for embezzlement, creditors' claims were presented aggregating many thousands of dollars. The firm of Thomas A. Biddle & Company, of Philadelphia, demanded $9,146.24; the J. W. Sparks Company, of Philadelphia, $6,783, and other claims amounted to about $9,000. Another meeting of creditors was fixed.

CHAPTER I.

Hope and Disappointment.

Lieutenant Thomas Holton, commander of the Scorpion, made as though to place the dispatch in his pocket, then, taking pity upon his "second," who was all eyes, he turned the paper over to his junior lieutenant, known throughout the flotilla as "Bobby" Frost.

"You will leave Newport News at ten o'clock tonight with the destroyer Scorpion and proceed south to the parent ship of the First Torpedo Boat Flotilla off Key West, prepared for action."

This order was warmly welcomed by Holton and by his second in command of the grim, lead-colored Scorpion.

"It looks like business, doesn't it?" observed Frost, with tentative inflection in his voice.

"It does, sure," chuckled Holton. "I'm glad we had those baffle-plates fixed in the boiler. I suppose we might as well have the war-heads fixed on the torpedoes, too. The orders say 'prepare for action.' Attend to it, will you, Frost?"

"Aye, aye, sir," and Frost hurried along the grimy, oily deck to the after companionway.

The somewhat informal nature of the dialogue between the two will be forgiven by the fastidious when it is pointed out that for a month the Scorpion had been laying at Newport News on detached duty of a confidential nature under direct orders from Washington, and that Holton's sole companion aboard ship in that time had been his young second. But the period of loneliness was evidently to end in a burst of glory and Lieutenant Holton was truly thankful.

In the preceding month the mighty battle-ship Maine had wallowed down into the slimy ooze of Havana Harbor, a great hole torn in her forward compartments. In her lay one of Holton's best friends, a shipmate of pleasant days following graduation at the Naval Academy. The cry, "Remember the Maine," was sounding from Maine itself to California. The entire country was on the qui vive. Osgood, the hero of many an American football gridiron, had, as a Cuban volunteer, given up his life at the side of a machine gun; Frederick Funston had served valiantly against the tyrants of Castile and Aragon, and other Americans had given evidence that the fighting spirit was by no means dormant in the heart of a nation of "pigs and tradesmen."

With the situation thus there was little cause for wonder at Lieutenant Holton's emotions of mental exaltation. Whatever the future might hold for him, at least this seemed certain: there would be action, and that is something for which your true gentleman of the service is ever on the watch.

Something of the mood of the two young officers was communicated to the crew. There were broad grins on all the men's faces as they hurried about the performance of the various tasks, and many of them did not forbear to turn inquiring faces toward their officers whenever occasion offered—which expressions, naturally their officers "failed" to see.

At sunset everything was in readiness, and with a sigh of relief Holton stretched himself on the narrow seat running along the mess-room and lovingly filled his pipe. Frost did likewise and then looked over at his superior.

"By George!" he cried, "think of having the opportunity of putting into practice all the things we've learned!"

"It won't be bad fun at all," replied Holton.

Frost was about to utter another thought when the doorway was darkened by the figure of a messenger.

"A telegram for Lieutenant Holton," he said, saluting.

Holton took it hastily and ran over the contents. His face clouded and he read it again. A good strong word was trembling on his lips, and he was about to crumple the dispatch in his hand when his eye fell on the messenger standing at attention.

"Oh, thank you," he said; "there is no answer.

As the messenger departed Holton handed the telegram to his second without a word.

"You will proceed at once to Washington and report to me at the earliest possible moment. Lieutenant Frost will assume command of Scorpion in your absence. ROOSEVELT."

As Frost read the message aloud his voice quivered with excitement. "What does that mean?" he exclaimed.

"Hanged if I know," growled Holton. "Isn't that just my luck! I've been working on this old pot trying to get her into shape and hoping and praying for a chance to make good, and then when there appears to be something doing, why I get skinned this way."

Frost knew exactly how the commender felt, and his natural exultation at being placed in command of the destroyer was quite swallowed up in his sympathy for a man who was his good friend as well as his superior officer.

Holton sat for a while blowing blue clouds of smoke to the ceiling, outwardly calm, but inwardly seething. He went over every act in the past month or so, but could think of nothing he had done that would warrant his recall in disgrace.

"Well, Bobby," he said at length, "you're a real live captain now. And I congratulate you."

"I feel like a man who is going to put on a pair of boots that are too big for him," remarked Frost.

"Oh, nonsense!" smiled Holton. "You're in every way qualified. I'll vouch for you, Bobby."

Frost smiled.

"Thanks," he said; "I'd rather have that from you than from almost anyone I know."

"Well," laughed Holton, "take it then; it's sincere. He arose and called to the steward.

"Oh, you, Koko," he said, "come in here and help me pack. I'm going to leave you for a while."

Dinner that evening was rather a mournful affair, neither Holton nor Frost trying to make light of the mysterious situation.

He shook hands with Frost at eight o'clock, and with Koko carrying his bag, started for the station. He had delayed rather longer than he should have done in writing supplementary letters to his parents, and now he found it was necessary to make haste if he was to catch the train for Washington. Eventually, indeed, he and Koko had to run, and as he reached the station the cars were pulling out.

The Jap threw the bag into the open doors of the rear one and Holton made the steps with a flying leap. As he did so a man who had been following the two essayed a similar flight, but his feet missed the steps and he clung to the gilded rail with his left hand.

As Holton reached down to assist him the man lost his grip and went plunging head over heels into the gravel. Evidently his fall did not injure him, for as Holton peered back along the rails he saw the fellow rise slowly and shake his fist at the departing train.

If he had known the circumstances under which he was to meet this stranger at a time not far distant, his feeling of relief when he saw that the man was not seriously injured might have been tinctured by emotions of various sorts.

* * * * * * * * *

Having put up at the Metropolitan club, Holton passed such time as had to elapse before the assistant secretary would be at his desk in the Navy Department building in a fever of impatience.

Having at length finished his cigar and his morning paper—which bristled with bellicose matter—Holton put on his hat and overcoat and sauntered slowly toward the Capitol. At ten o'clock he went over to the Navy Department and sent his card in to the assistant secretary.

Presently his summons came while yet another man was engaged in the inner office. This man, however, brushed out past Holton as the young officer, with mingled emotion, walked into the presence of Secretary Long's assistant.

"Good morning, Mr. Holton." Certainly no evil augury was to be detected in the hearty cadence of the greeting. "Sit down, sir. I'm glad you were so prompt. That's what we need in these days."

"Thank you, sir," said Holton dubiously.

The assistant secretary observed him keenly for a moment, and then apparently satisfied with his scrutiny, he arose and paced up and down the length of his office.

"By George, Mr. Holton!" he said, "when you realize that war is coming—coming as sure as guns, and then consider our unpreparedness for it—it makes you glad it's Spain and not someone else."

"I think the navy's pretty fit, sir," ventured Holton.

"Ah, the navy! And the army!" The words came out like bullets. "The navy is all right, and the army, too, what there is of it. The fighting men of both arms of the service are the best this world ever saw: getting things started, that's the trouble. Well, thank Heaven, Dewey's—" the assistant secretary stopped short, and craning his neck forward, characteristically thrust his square jaw close to the officer's face. We've all got to do the best we can and be sure that when the blow comes it will come from, and not toward us."

Holton nodded slightly.

"I liked your action in diving overboard and rescuing two of your men last summer," resumed Mr. Roosevelt. "And I may say that a study of your record has convinced me that just at present a little respite from duties aboard the Scorpion will accrue to our mutual advantage."

The assistant secretary paused, and then as Holton made no reply, he continued:

"We are not yet at war with Spain—not yet, and in the meantime I think it will be just as well for you to remain in fairly close touch with my office—personal touch. By the way, there's a ball at the Willard tonight—"

"A ball!" exclaimed Holton. Then he caught himself. "Yes, sir," he added.

"Yes, a ball at the Willard. Here is a card—you'll note it is a personal invitation to you."

Holton glanced at it.

"I see it, sir." He hesitated. "I am—merely, merely to go there and dance? I mean—mean, sir, are there any instructions?"

"I should keep my eyes and ears open if I were you."

"Yes, sir, I'll do that, and I hope I'll be able to be of some service," he was rising to go. "Although—although I'm afraid I lack—that is, and—" Holton paused and glanced irresolutely at his chief.

"That you lack definite information," said the assistant secretary, who seemed to have the faculty of reading his thoughts and expressing them before Holton himself could frame them in suitable, or, we'll say, diplomatic terms.

"Why, yes, sir—I have a feeling that the situation is indefinite."

"Yes. Sit down, Mr. Holton." Holton resumed his chair and his chief leaned forward, talking rapidly in a low tone.

"Here is the nub of the situation," he began. "In the first place we have reason, excellent reasons, for suspecting that there are certain elements among the Cubans, both in the United States and in Havana, that are strongly inclined to doubt the good faith of the United States in this brewing trouble with Spain."

Holton, thrilled by the promise of revelations which these opening words conveyed, thrilled, also, by his induction into the inner affairs of the government mill, flushed and regarded the eyeglasses turned toward him, with unblinking eyes, impatient for the next word.

"Naturally," continued Mr. Roosevelt," the Cubans are eager to avail themselves of our armed forces afloat and ashore, but after the work is all done they want us to clear out. Which, of course, we shall do, having first established some decent and stable system of government down there."

"I had not any idea our good faith was in question," observed Holton.

"It is," was the reply, "and it is taking the form of preparations for an attack upon our troops by Cuban forces after we have cleaned the Spaniards out of the island."

"What a chance!" exclaimed Holton, with patriotic fervor.

The assistant secretary smiled.

"I myself regard the project as crack-brained in its conception, but nevertheless it exists and must be met. We must learn their plans at all hazards, and I can tell you now that while we have a general idea as to the situation, it is little more than general, and details of a specific nature would be very welcome. I want you to see what you can do. Your record is that of a clear-headed man of initiative and common sense. You speak Spanish, you are equally at home in a ballroom or in roughing it. You're the man we want."

"Thank you, sir."

"I have been extremely confidential," resumed the assistant secretary, "as naturally it was necessary I should be. Any further information I receive from the Secret Service will be transmitted to you, and in turn I shall expect you to keep us in touch with matters as you develop them. Now then, at the ball tonight you are to become acquainted with the following if you can locate them."

He handed Holton several sheets of typewritten matter, headed by halftone photographs.

"That man especially is worth watching," continued Holton's chief, pointing to the portrait of a well-appearing Cuban, apparently about fifty years old, "and this girl also."

"I understand," said Holton. I have a good idea of what you want, I think, Mr. Secretary, and I hope I don't have to tell you that I shall leave nothing undone to carry out your wishes."

"You don't," was the smiling reply.

"It is rather new ground, but it will be interesting work, and will give me a chance to see action, perhaps, before the rest of the crowd."

The assistant secretary smiled.

"Thinking of the Scorpion, eh," he laughed. "Well, I'll wager a new suit of clothes against an apple that you'll soon have so much to occupy your mind that your destroyer will be nothing but a hazy memory."

"I'll try to make it so, at all events," laughed Holton. "Good morning, sir."

"Good morning. You may report here until further orders every day at this hour."

"Yes, sir." Holton turned and left the office.

The assistant secretary wheeled around in his swivel-chair and thought deeply for a moment. Then he picked up a paper.

"By George!" he murmured, "that young chap is in for a bully time."

Meantime Holton walked cheerily to his club, and there met several brother officers who were keen for billiards. So the remainder of the day was spent at this diversion.

He had a table at the Willard for dinner, whence he intended to proceed to the dance. He dressed with great care, and at the last thrust into his hip pocket an article not usually regarded in polite society as a complement of evening attire—a short, thick, very serviceable-appearing revolver.

Explanation of Potlatch.

The word potlatch is a corruption of an Indian word common among the Pacific coast tribes, meaning festival of gifts. At a patshatl (potlatch) celebration the more personal property an Indian gives away, blankets, ornaments, etc., the higher he stands in the estimation of his neighbors, and the more he expects to receive in return at the next potlatch. The festival is also accompanied by music, dancing and feasting.

WILL SOME DAY BE UTILIZED

Almost Unlimited Power in the Current of Niagara River, at Present Unharnessed.

"But for the efforts of the civic associations whose desire is to preserve the scenic beauties of the world in general, the Niagara river could be made to develop enough power to move every street car, light and heat every house and supply all the power for manufacturing industry in the state of New York," said Edwin W. Trimmer, United States consul at Niagara Falls, Ontario, at the Shoreham. "At present scarcely more than 5 per cent. of the possible power of the Niagara river has been harnessed. The current of the river below the falls will some day be harnessed by some engineer without affecting the scenery in any degree.

"It has been only within the last quarter of a century that even the falls themselves have been utilized. There have been efforts made to use the current of the river below the falls, but these efforts have not proved commercially successful. But one has only to ride over the gorge route from the city of Niagara Falls, N. Y., to Lewiston and back, over the Cliff road, on the Canadian side, to realize at a glance what a terrific force surges through the channel, and to understand the possibilities of power development there."—Washington Post.

Giving Them Warning.

At the annual picnic of a Manchester firm one of the packers was called upon after dinner to propose the toast to the firm. He was rather nervous, and began thus: "Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I have very great pleasure in rising to propose the health of the firm, which will be very brief."—Manchester Guardian.

SAY MONROEISM IS IRRITATING

Doctrine Scored at Pan-American Conference.

DIMINISHES OUR INFLUENCE.

George F. Tucker, a Distinguished Author, and Prof. Bingham, Of Yale, Make Plea For South American Republics.

Worcester, Mass. — Prof. Hiram Bingham, of Yale, and George F. Tucker, of Boston, author of The Monroe Doctrine and other books, spoke on the Monroe doctrine at the Clark University Conference on Latin-America.

Dr. Tucker urged the abandonment of the Monroe Doctrine. "The views of the Southern republics themselves," he said, "should be considered. The present protectorate idea of the United States is very different from the acceptable service rendered to the Latin-American countries 90 years ago. If the Monroe Doctrine is asserted to any further extent the catholic spirit of the patriot, and not the inflamed temper of the jingoist, should be brought to the settlement of the differences. Even those South Americans who do not fear our imperialism realize the selfishness of the Monroe Doctrine, and it makes them dislike us and mistrust our foreign policy.

"Consequently, by maintaining this national shibboleth and adhering to the words 'Monroe Doctrine,' we diminish our possible influence for good in the Western Hemisphere, and we interfere with the growth of our foreign commerce.

"We owe it to ourselves to give up the words 'Monroe Doctrine,' and to adopt a policy of Pan-American defense which will enable us to secure the friendship and support of our neighbors in the Western Hemisphere, which will increase our influence for good among them, and will remove any handicap in the development of our foreign commerce.

Professor Bingham, head of the department of Latin-American history at Yale, declared that the Monroe Doctrine is distasteful to the Latin-American countries. "When the South Americans use these words," he said, "or compress them into one—'Monroeism'—the meaning is for them a sinister one. It spells tutelage and intervention; it means the desire of the great and powerful United States to interfere in the personal affairs of the American republics. To the citizens of the leading American republics, like Argentina, Brazil and Chili, our adherence to Monroeism is extremely irritating, and even positively insulting. To the lesser republics, particularly those around the Caribbean Sea, Monroeism means interference, intervention, imperialism and annexation."

MISS BURNS PAYS FINE.

Suffragette Who Chalked White House Sidewalks.

Washington.—Miss Lucy Burns, the capital's first militant suffragette, paid a fine of one dollar in police court for chalking the White House sidewalks with "votes for women." The judge proposed to release Miss Burns on her personal bond not to repeat the offense, which is a violation of a city ordinance.

"I want this thing settled and over with," said Miss Burns, so the court made it a dollar, and she left, the center of admiration of her sisters.

DYNAMITE DIDN'T EXPLODE.

But Six Miners Were Fatally Injured In Car Collision.

Bellaire, O.—A car carrying 12 miners collided with a car hauling 250 pounds of dynamite 400 feet from the entrance of the Pultney mine, near here. Both cars left the rails. All of the men were injured, six fatally, it is believed. They were foreigners. The dynamite did not explode. If it had the 12 men would have been killed outright.

WILL BE LEFT TO JURY.

Judge Refuses Lunacy Commission For Hans Schmidt.

New York.—The question whether Hans Schmidt was insane when he killed Anna Aumuller, cut up her body and threw it into the Hudson will be left to the jury that will try him for murder. Judge Foster in the Court of General Sessions denied a motion of Schmidt's attorney for the appointment of a commission to pass on his mental condition.

A DARING ROBBERY.

Bank Cashier Held Up At Noon and Locked In Safe.

Laurel, Miss.—Unobserved except by his victim, a robber entered the Bank of Heidelberg, at Heidelberg, Miss., shortly before noon, held the cashier up at a pistol point, got about $2,000, locked the cashier in a vault and escaped on a freight train that was passing nearby. The cashier was liberated within half an hour and gave the alarm.

ATTORNEYS.

FORESTER'S VERSION OF HUNTING.

Thirteen Bucks Killed in Forester Ludwig's Bailiwick—Wild Cats Enemy of Deer in Bear Meadows.

Deer in the Bear Meadows Division of the State Forest Reserves seemed to be rather plentiful and of very good size. As near as we can judge about fifteen deer were killed; these were divided among the various camps as follows:

Miller party in Shingletown Gap	8
Altoona party in Shingletown Gap	1
Riley party in Bear Meadows	2
Raymond party in Bear Meadows	-
Coatsville party in Bear Meadows	-
Reitz party in Reitz Gap	4
State College party in Laurel Run	1
Party from "The Loop"	1
Unknown party	1

A singular fact in this connection is that most of the deer killed were two and three prong bucks and were large and heavy in body. And further, most of them were found near the open valleys and cultivated lands; within a radius of five miles around Reitz Gap no less than nine bucks were killed. In previous years, the "Bear Meadows" proper seemed to contain the most deer, but these have evidently migrated and are now staying nearer the valleys. This is undoubtedly due to the large number of wildcats which infest the "Bear Meadows," thus driving out the deer. Steps will be taken to exterminate these pests and afford protection to the deer.

WALTER D. LUDWIG,
Forester.

[Next week reports from Forester Meek, at Coburn, and Forester Montgomery, at Potters Mills, will be given.—ED.]

Sweetwoods Get Second Deer.

The Sweetwood hunting party were located on the "Summit" in Poe Valley, and killed two deer. The first was killed by B. F. Kennelly and the second by D. W. Sweetwood.

The "Regulars" Get Four.

The "Regulars" hunting party of Potters Mills, who camped near Pat Garrity's, and consisting of the following: J. S. Reish, T. G. Decker, M. E. Coyle, J. L. Faust, Harry Wilkinson, Lloyd Smith, J. S. Auman, J. G. Bole, W. C. Gramley, S. W. Gramley, Frank McCoy, Lawrence Meeker, and Warren Slack, broke camp last Friday. Their record is a repetition of last years success, four deer, shot by Harry Wilkinson, J. L. Faust, Frank McCoy, and S. W. Gramley, one of the deer was a five prong buck weighing over 200 pounds. The party owes its success largely to the skillful guidance of several of its older members and especially may this be said of T. G. Decker and J. S. Auman. The latter, who is known about Potters Mills as "Jake" is one of the most skilled hunters in that vicinity, and has shot during his hunting career more than fifty deer. A remarkable feature of this year's record is that the four deer were shot by the firing of only five shots.

LOCALS

Centre County Pomona Grange will meet at Centre Hall, Tuesday of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Thompson and son, John Lawrence, spent Sunday in Centre Hall at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Harry Dodson.

Stones are being hauled for the foundation walls of an ice house to be erected in connection with the proposed co-operative creamery.

Fine Crop of Wheat.

One of the best crops of wheat, and probably the largest in number of bushels, in this locality was grown by John Delaney, tenant on the Albert Spayd farm, at Earlystown. The total yield was eleven hundred and sixty-two bushels, from forty-two acres, or an average of almost twenty-eight bushels per acre, machine measure. The field at harvest time was a beautiful sight, and mention of the methodical manner in which it was shocked was made in these columns at that time.

Rededication of Church.

St. John's Lutheran church, at Millheim, which has undergone extensive repairs, and has been refurnished, will be rededicated with appropriate services on Sunday, 30th inst., at 10 a. m, and 7 p. m.

The Rev. Frederick L. Geesey, father of Rev. M. D. Geesey, pastor in charge, who is the pastor of the Mahlenberg charge, Spring Grove, York county, will preach at the morning services on the subject, "My duty to my Church."

The Rev. T. C. Billheimer, D. D., professor emeritus, Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, will have charge of the finances and preach the dedicatory sermon in the evening. Dr. Billheimer has traveled through Europe, Egypt, and the Holy Lands, and is full of life, wit and humor.

On Monday evening Dr. Billheimer will give an illustrated lecture on "The Story of Esther." Services will be continued throughout the week, with preparatory and confirmation services on Thursday evening, and communion on Friday evening.

LOCALS.

On Tuesday morning B. D. Brisbin went to Pittsburg to attend to business matters.

Christmas services will be held in the Lutheran church, Spring Mills, on Christmas eve.

Mrs. Newton Emerick and children are at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Fetterolf, in Centre Hall.

Dandelion blossoms were numerous on the lawns and in the fields, last week. They looked decidedly pretty, peeking through the light covering of snow on Monday morning.

Mrs. B. F. Bieber and little daughter Frances of West Milton visited among friends at Spring Mills, Tusseyville and Centre Hall, last week. While she was among friends, Rev. Bieber was having the time of his life with the Georges Valley hunting party in the Seven Mountains. The party was successful in killing a deer, but the honor falls to a local hunter.

Rev. and Mrs. R. R. Jones, and their daughter, Gladys left Wednesday morning for Harrisburg, where their son, Prof. William R. Jones, Spring Mills, and Miss Christine M. Shumaker, will be united in marriage, on Thanksgiving Day. The young couple will make their home at Spring Mills, where Mr. Jones is principal of the Gregg township High school.

Messrs. John Fretz and Allen Potter of Collegeville, near Philadelphia, are at the home of J. W. Mitterling, in Centre Hall. Mr. Fretz is proprietor of the Perkiomen Bridge Hotel where Mr. Mitterling holds his cattle sales, and Mr. Potter is a salesman of automobile tires. They came to the valley to hunt small game, having been so well pleased with their success last year.

Mrs. Mabel Morrison of Bellefonte, accompanied by her brother, Trood D. Parker of Clearfield, were in Centre Hall on Tuesday, and called on Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Harper. Mr. Parker found his way to this office for a short time, he having at one time been an all'round boy in a print shop. He is now doing clerical work for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and counts the Pennsy company very good employers.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff M. Heckman and grand-daughter Gladys Zerby of Spring Mills were callers at this office on Monday, having come to Centre Hall on business. The little girl, so far as she is concerned, has become a permanent fixture in the Heckman home, and has been there continuously since last April. The youngster must be credited with knowing what a good home is, and this without reflecting on her parents.

Korman Spicher of Philadelphia, who came up to old Centre to hunt with the Colyer hunters, was a caller on Tuesday morning at this office. Mr. Spicher is a mail carrier, and delivers over the Nicetown district. The Christmas rush of mail matter is not worrying him, as all packages over two pounds are delivered by automobiles by special carriers for that class of mail. Mr. Spicher returned home Tuesday afternoon, and will take enough venison with him to scent the air about his home.

Tusseyville

David Stoner spent Sunday with friends at Millheim.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Horner spent Sunday at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Horner, near Linden Hall.

Domer Royer of Milroy is visiting at the home of David Stoner.

The reception given by the Y. P. B of Tusseyville, on Friday evening, was well attended.

Sheriff A. B. Lee of Bellefonte spent several days last week at the home of his sister, Mrs. Foster Frazier.

John Frazier, after spending a week at the home of his uncle, Foster Frazier, has again returned to Williamsport.

All you hear at present is "how many rabbits did you get?" but nevertheless the boys are doing right well.

Corn husking is over around here for this year, the season being closed by Hugh Runkle; the next thing on the program is butchering and big dinners.

Rev. W. A. McClellan of Rockwood, Someset county, is visiting at the home of his aged mother at this place.

William Rickert, who has been employed at the David Stoner home, has gone to Mill Hall where he has secured employment for the winter.

The writer is sorry to say that Mrs Sarah Horner, who has been ill for some time, is not improving.

Mr. and Mrs. John Diehl of Linden Hall spent Sunday at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fleisy.

Mrs. Philip Bradford, daughter Grace and son Carl of Lemont visited at the home of George Lee last week.

Revival services are being held in the United Evangelical church by Rev. Foss; all are invited to attend.

Those who spent Sunday at the home of Foster Frazier were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Meyer of Centre Hall; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller, and son Edgar, and Mrs. William Lee of Colyer; Howard Frazier of Centre Hall; Mr. and Mrs. James Goodhart and children, also Jane Foust of Centre Hill; John Frazier, Williamsport; Sarah and Grace Horner, Tusseyville.

Harris Township.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fortney spent Sunday at Pinegrove Mills.

A Union Thanksgiving service will be held in the Lutheran church this Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. W. K. Harnish will preach the sermon.

J. F. Zechman of Troxelville rented the property of Mrs. Lou. D. Hynes; he expects to take possession some time during the winter and will keep a furniture store and attend to undertaking.

Linden Hall

George Krape of Salona is visiting his daughter, Mrs. William Ferree.

George M. Hall of Huntingdon spent Saturday with friends here.

Charlie Colyer left on Monday for Joliet, Illinois, where he expects to make his home.

Mrs. Anna Williams of Juniata is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. J. H. Ross.

Rev. Luther H. Waring of Washington, D. C., spent a few days last week with his cousin, F. E. Wieland.

Mrs. Oran Grove and little daughter came up from the Red Hill for a visit at the J. L. Tressler home.

Ned Keller is in the Jefferson hospital in Philadelphia, where he underwent an operation a week ago.

Tuesday evening about sixty-five friends and neighbors of Mrs. J. H. Ross assembled at her home during her absence at a dinner at State College and gave her a complete surprise on her return home. The party was gotten up in honor of her birthday anniversary. Choice refreshments were served and all enjoyed a very pleasant evening. Guests were present from State College, Lemont, Altoona and Boalsburg.

Clyde Duck of Madisonburg has finished thrashing grain in this vicinity and is now baling hay for the farmers.

Mrs. Lester Minnich and son Stoner have gone to State College where they will visit for several weeks.

Frank Long, at present tenent on the D D Royer farm, has rented the Hackenburg home at Smullton and will move there in the spring.

The rumor that T. M. Gramley had purchased the farm of his brother-in-law, T. W. Walker, is incorrect. The rumor, no doubt, grew out of transactions entirely foreign to the sale of a farm.

On Sunday afternoon, Sarah, wife of Jacob Gephart, died very suddenly. Although her health had been failing for over a year, her death came very unexpectedly. She ate dinner with the family, and soon afterwards was a corpse. She was the mother of eleven children, six of whom are living.

Sunday a week a unanimous call was extended to Rev. Metzger of Pennbrook to become the pastor of the Rebersburg Lutheran charge. Rev. Metzger preached for the three congregations on Sunday a week, and after the close of the respective service a unanimous vote was cast inviting him to become the regular pastor. The congregation at this time has not had a reply from the minister as to his acceptance or refusal of the call.

Aaronsburg.

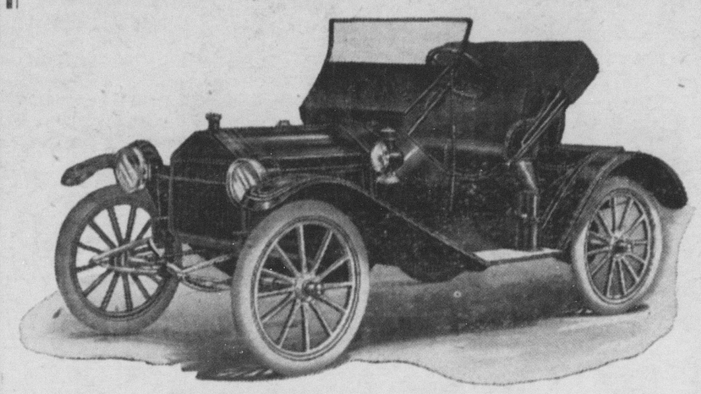
This is the Car

that put them all to route in the last Glidden Tour, a 1,300-mile course from Minneapolis to Glacier National Park. The Metz "22" was pitted against cars costing from five to ten times as much, yet the three Metz cars were the only team that held a Perfect Score, without additional allowance or time extension of any, for the entire eight days of the contest.



EQUIPPED COMPLETE 1914 IMPROVEMENTS

METZ "22" $475

WINNER OF THE GLIDDEN TOUR

The Gearless Car—No Clutch to Slip—No Gears to Slip

The Metz "22" won the Glidden Tour and captured the Glidden and Minneapolis News trophies simply because it is a practial car, best suited to overcome all road conditions without strain or injury. The three regular stock cars that composed the Metz team were the only cars in the tour equipped with Gearless transmission.

The METZ "22" is fitted throughout with standard equipment, including 4-cylinder 22 1-2 h. p. water cooled motor, Bosch magneto, 30 in. artillery wheels, best quality Goodrich clincher tires, etc., etc. It is a high grade, fully guaranteed car, torpedo semi-enclosed body, left-hand drive and center control, and the most economical on the market to operate. Travels from 28 to 32 miles on one gallon of gasoline, and from 10,000 to 12,000 miles on a set of tires. Makes from 5 to 50 miles per hour on high speed, and climbs hills as fast as any regular stock car made, regardless of its price.

Jessie Woodrow Wilson Becomes Bride of Francis Bowes Sayre

Francis B. Sayre. Future Home of the Sayres. East Room of White House. Mrs. F. B. Sayre.

Washington, Nov. 25.—In the beautiful east room of the White House at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon Jessie Woodrow Wilson, second daughter of the president, was made the wife of Francis Bowes Sayre. Rev. Sylvester Beach of Princeton, N. J., performed the ceremony.

The entire affair was very simple, as had been requested by the bride, and the number of guests was rather small—distressingly so to many persons in official and social circles of Washington who had expected to receive invitations but were disappointed.

Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, eldest of the three daughters, acted as maid of honor to her sister, and Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, the youngest, was one of the bridesmaids. The three other bridesmaids were Miss Adeline Mitchell Scott of Princeton, daughter of Prof. William B. Scott; Miss Marjorie Brown of Atlanta, Pa., daughter of Mrs. Wilson's cousin, Col. E. T. Brown, and Miss Mary G. White of Baltimore, a college friend of the bride.

Dr. Grenfell Is Best Man.

Mr. Sayre was attended by his best man, Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the famous medical missionary to the fishermen of the Labrador coast. The two men have long been fast friends and Mr. Sayre spent two summers helping Dr. Grenfell with his work.

The ushers were Charles E. Hughes, Jr., son of Justice Hughes of the Supreme court and a classmate of Mr. Sayre in the Harvard law school; Dr. Gilbert Horax of Montclair, N. J., who was a classmate at Williams college in 1909 and now at Johns Hopkins university; Benjamin Burton of New York city, and Dr. Scoville Clark of Salem, Mass., who was Mr. Sayre's companion in Labrador and Newfoundland.

Wedding Gown of Ivory Satin.

The bride's gown was of satin, of a soft ivory tint, trimmed with beautiful lace, both old and rare. It was made in New York and the women connoisseurs declared that it was a masterpiece. The lingerie in the trousseau is of the most dainty material and is all hand made. The maid of honor and bridesmaids were beautifully gowned and all looked their best.

Coming right in the midst of the chrysanthemum season, this was made a chrysanthemum wedding and that flower was used most profusely in adorning the White House. As the bride's favorite color is mauve, that was made the prevailing color in the decorations. The east room, and indeed all the rooms in the president's mansion, were beautiful indeed.

Depart on Their Honeymoon.

After the ceremony was completed and the couple had received the congratulations of the guests, refreshments were served, and then Mr. and Mrs. Sayre departed for their honeymoon. Their plans include a visit to the home of Miss Nevin, Mr. Sayre's aunt, at Windsor Forges, near Churchtown, Pa., where they first met. After January 1 they will live in Williamstown, Mass., for Mr. Sayre is to sever his connection with the office of District Attorney Whitman in New York and become assistant to Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college.

JESSIE'S WEDDING CAKE.

Jessie Wilson's wedding cake was a triumph of the pastry cook's art. It was two and a half feet tall, counting the white orchids that were placed on top of it, and weighed 135 pounds. The first layer was four inches thick and 22 inches across. The cake contained 19 ingredients and its cost was about $500. Over the body of the cake was molded a thick white icing scroll work, on its top was a design for the initials of the bride and groom, done in silver, and around the sides were lilies of the valley in white sugar. This delicious confection was distributed in 2,000 dainty white boxes tied with satin ribbon and each of the proper size to go under the pollow of the recipient to bring dreams.

There was one disappointment for those who attended the wedding, for the gifts were not put on display. It is known that these included many beautiful and valuable articles sent by relatives and personal friends of the bride and groom and of their families and by admirers of President Wilson. Handsome presents were sent by both the senate and the house, that of the latter being a diamond lavalliere which Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of the speaker, bought for the representatives in New York.

Guests Limited to 400.

Those who were invited to witness the wedding were mostly personal friends and the number was kept down close to four hundred. The list was pared and revised several times, and as has been said, the operation resulted in many heartburnings. From the house of representatives' circle, for instance, the only guests were Speaker Champ Clark, Mrs. Clark and Miss Genevieve Clark, Marjory Leader Underwood and Mrs. Underwood, and Minority Leader Mann and Mrs. Mann.

As might be expected, the streets outside the White House were as crowded as the police would permit with curious persons eager to watch the arrival and departure of the guests and trying to obtain through the windows a glimpse of the doings within. The police arrangements were admirable and nothing happened, in the White House or outside, to mar the happy occasion.

The wedding of Mr. Sayre and Miss Wilson was the thirteenth to be celebrated in the White House, but the bride has always considered 13 her lucky number instead of a hoodoo. There have been more than twenty weddings in which either the bride or groom resided in the White House, and the last wedding ceremony performed there was the one which united Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth. Today's event was much quieter than that one, and the guests not nearly so numerous.

Mrs. Sayre a Social Worker.

Mrs. Sayre was born in Gainsville, Pa., twenty-five years ago. She attended the Women's college at Baltimore and was an honor member of the class of 1908, being also elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa. For two years after her graduation she engaged in settlement work in Kensington, Pa., and she is a member of the executive board of the National Young Woman's Christian association. She has delivered several excellent addresses in public.

In appearance she does not resemble her father as much as do her sisters, having rather the features of her mother's family, the Axsons. She is an accomplished swimmer, rider and tennis player and also something of an actress.

Something About the Groom.

Francis Bowes Sayre is twenty-eight years old, and was born at South Bethlehem, Pa., a son of the late Robert Heysham Sayre, who built the Lehigh Valley railroad and at one time was assistant to the president of the Bethlehem iron works, since known as the Bethlehem steel works. He was also once president of the board of trustees of the Lehigh university.

Francis Bowes Sayre graduated from Lawrenceville school, Lawrenceville, N. J., in 1904, and from Williams college in 1909. He entered Harvard law school and graduated "cum laude." He was a member of the Sigma Phi fraternity, Gargoyle society and the Phi Beta Kappa at Williams. For the past year he has been working in the office of District Attorney Whitman of New York. During the summer he was admitted to the bar of New York state.

Mr. Sayre's mother is Mrs. Martha Finlay Sayre, daughter of the late William Nevin, who was president of Franklin and Marshal college at Lancaster, Pa. She is a descendant of Hugh Williamson of North Carolina, one of the framers of the Constitution of the United States, and is a sister of the late Robert Nevin, head of the American church at Rome, and a cousin of Ethelbert Nevin, the composer.

Other White House Weddings.

The wedding of Jessie Wilson and Francis Sayre was the thirteenth to be solemnized in the White House. The first was that of Anna Todd, a niece of Dolly Madison's first husband, and John G. Jackson. Then Mrs. Madison's sister, Lucy, was married to Judge Todd of Kentucky. The third wedding, that of Maria Monroe, daughter of President Monroe, to Samuel Lawrence Gouverneur in 1820 marked the first social use of the east room. Eight years later John, the second son of President John Quincy Adams, married his cousin, Mary Hellen, in the blue room. While General Jackson was president there were three weddings in the White House, those of Delia Lewis to Alphonse Joseph Yver Pageot of the French legation; Mary Eaton to Lucien B. Polk, and Emily Martin to Louis Randolph. Many years passed before there was another marriage ceremony in the president's mansion, the next being of Nellie, the only daughter of General Grant, and Algernon C. F. Sartoris. In 1876 Emily Platt, a niece of Mrs. Hayes, was married in the blue room to Gen. Russell Hastings. The eleventh of this series of weddings was that of President Cleveland to Frances Folsom, and the twelfth that of President Roosevelt's daughter Alice, to Nicholas Longworth.

Real Test of Sympathy.

CALLS BUTTER OUT OF STORAGE

None of the June Product To Remain After February

TIE UP 10,500,000 POUNDS

Enormous Holdings on October 1, Intended to Bring "Corner" Prices—Commissioner Foust After Speculators Holding for Scarcity.

(Special Harrisburg Correspondence.)

Harrisburg. — Having recently threatened to attack the egg corner by forcing out cold storage in December all eggs stored as early as April, Commissioner Foust is after the butter speculators — those who have butter in cold storage and are waiting for a scarcity of the article to dump their cold storage accumulations on the market at big prices and reap enormous profits from the housekeeper.

On October 1, according to reports made to the Commissioner by agents of the pure food division throughout the State, there were 10,500,000 pounds of butter in cold storage in this State, the greater part of which was stored in June. Under the new law this butter can remain nine months which means that it must be put on the market in February. Pure food agents, who have been looking after cold-storage eggs, are under instructions to keep a sharp watch on these 10,500,000 pounds of butter in cold storage, and on the day the time limit of nine months expires to tag it as unsalable for food in Pennsylvania, and if any attempt is made to sell it after that period at once to arrest the party offering it for sale.

Pure food agents in the field since the ultimatum to the egg speculators are sending telegrams to Commissioner Foust, telling him that cold storage eggs are being sent out on the market as fast as possible, especially April eggs, and that it looks as if all April eggs would be out before the time limit expires in December. Since the warning was sounded about 4,500,000 dozen of cold storage eggs have been marketed. In Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton, Harrisburg, Williamsport, DuBois—in fact, wherever eggs are in cold storage—an effort is being made to put them on the market, the result of which has been that cold storage eggs have dropped three cents a dozen. The pure food agent in Scranton writes that there are but 3,369 crates in cold storage there now, and the speculators, fearing a further drop, are getting rid of them as fast as possible, or as fast as the market will take them.

Payments Unprecedented.

Payments from the State Treasury have reached the unprecedented total of $35,444, 118.73 and the end of the fiscal year is not until the close of this month. Money has been going out of the Treasury faster than it has been coming in because of the tremendous appropriations made by the last Legislature and the current expenses of government.

At the end of the appropriation year, the first Monday of June, the payments made from the commencement of the fiscal year, which was the first of last December, aggregated $11,652,770.98. The payments since that time have been almost $24,000,000. The increase over the payments to today's corresponding day of the last fiscal year amounts to $2,566,859.31.

The payments for the month of November alone, amounts to $4,323,647.10. This is far ahead of those of last November and heavy requisitions will be made in December for cash for hospitals and various other objects.

Famine in Stogies.

A stogie famine has been raging in Harrisburg in the last few weeks and a lot of people are complaining. Of late there has been a remarkable increase in the amount of smoking of the cheroots, which have been more or less sacred to the western part of the State, but which have become popular in regions where the "twofer" used to hold forth. Stogie smokers, however, are more apt to be particular about brands than cigar or cigarette smokers and it has happened that three or four popular brands have run out. The makers have been unable to keep up with the demands and hence the wrath.

Bank Examiner Appointed.

Pierce Ferguson, assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Charleroi, of which Governor Tener has been president for several years, has been appointed a State bank examiner to succeed Willett C. Binns, of Charleroi, who resigned to enter the Farmers' Deposit Bank, of Pittsburgh.

Jacks for All Trolleys.

Preliminary steps to require trolley cars to be equipped with jacks for use in case of accidents were taken by the Public Service Commission. John P. Dohoney, investigator of accidents, called attention of the Commission to the fact that an act requiring this equipment had been vetoed because the Governor felt that the Commission had authority in such matters, and it is probable that on January 1, the Commission will issue a rule requiring such appliances on all trolley cars.

COMMERCIAL

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

Bradstreet's says:

"Current trade reports, winter wheat crop advices and consumption of steel products indicate good present conditions, but future buying is slow, conservatism is in evidence, finished steel is weaker as the result of increased competition for orders and industry is running at a slower gait, though the quieting down is not general and it is significant that numerous industries are being pushed to make deliveries.

"Conservatism displayed is largely due to uncertainty over tariff readjustments, which it is thought may force lower prices. Another factor that exerts a strong deterring influence is the absence of a free market for loans. But in many quarters considerable improvement work is planned for the spring of 1914, and optimism still prevails.

"Business failures for the week were 305, which compares with 260 in 1912."

Poor Charities.

There are charity societies, as all the world knows, that only give to the poor a quarter or a half cent of every dollar they take in, most of their subscriptions going for salaries to officers and investigators, for expensive rentals, etc.

Richard March, the charity expert of Denver, Colo., was condemning these charities. He said:

"A man's wife shouted up to him the other day:

"'Don't you think this blue overcoat with the strapped-in back is too new and fashionable, George, to give away?'

"'It's the agent of the Alphia Incorporated Charities that's at the door, isn't it?'

"'Yes, dear.'

"'Then let the coat go,' said George. 'It'll be old enough and old-fashioned enough before it gets to the poor dub that is shivering for it now.'"

SEED MUST BE DRIED

Interesting and Instructive Data Regarding Storage.

Corn Treated With Artificial Heat In Well Ventilated Rooms Gave Highest Percentage of Germination in Experiment.

Some data regarding storage, germination and resulting stand of several farmers corn scattered widely over the central section of the country may prove helpful to our readers.

The fall of the beginning of the tests was ideal in regard to ripening and curing seed corn. The average germination of the corn secured then was 76.4 per cent. It ranged from 93 per cent. for kiln dried corn to 38 per cent. for corn taken from cribs.

The following summer the section suffered a severe drouth—with an early frost. Much of the crib corn mildewed. The effect on subsequent germination was very marked, the average for the next spring being only 55.5 per cent.

The lowest germination, 1½ per cent., was that of corn standing in the shock during the winter. Corn cured in well ventilated garrets or rooms made a good average, and corn fire-dried germinated 90 per cent.

A study of the records of many tests shows that seed corn dried with artificial heat in well ventilated rooms during the first two or three weeks after picking, gave the highest germination—an average of 91.5 per cent. for the two years. Next to this is corn cured in furnace rooms with open windows where the heat was applied immediately after bringing the corn from the field. Well ventilated rooms with more than one window gave germination of 86.5 per cent. Corn cured under porches protected from rains gave 70 per cent. Corn in barns, tool houses, etc., 69 per cent. Germination of corn kept in granaries and on windmills gave only 37.5 and 34 per cent. respectively.

A method of curing seed corn, which is too commonly practiced. The seed thus dried gives less than half the crop, since its vitality is injured by undue exposure.

In this study of seed curing much corn which was left lying in piles or standing in sacks, for even a short time after husking, was completely destroyed. The only safe way of curing seed corn is therefore to place the corn immediately after picking in a well ventilated room and apply stove or other artificial heat for from one to three weeks.

Avoid Sour Food.

If you have lost a good many young chicks during the past season and can find no other reason, it may be you will remember they had access to sour food. This will kill them quickly.

Eradicating Vermin.

It is no easy job to get rid of a million mites and lice in your poultry houses, but it is much easier to destroy a few thousand. Do not let them get the start of you.

RAISING HORSES FOR PROFIT

Dr. Alexander Urges Home Production of Stallions to Replace Scrubs, Mongrels and Grades.

The principles to be followed by farmers in improving their horse stock are: The use of sound, pure-bred sires of a particular breed, the use of sound mares, the feeding and care of the mare and foal and the working of the stallions regularly. Dr. Alexander of the Wisconsin experiment station, further urges the home production of pure-bred stallions to replace the grades, mongrels and scrubs too often used at present.

He urges that grade horses replace scrubs in farm teams. The organization of community associations will greatly facilitate the promotion of horse-breeding, and the encouragement of the industry may be furthered by prizes at county fairs for pure-bred stallions, mares and colts.

The evil effects which result from the use of unusual sires and dams, and the transmission of hereditary diseases is especially emphasized. It should be easily possible to increase the value of Wisconsin horses at least $10 per head during the next five years, the author points out, by the use of sound stallions and mares, and this would mean an addition of at least $7,000,000 to the total value of horse stock of the state.

AXLE GREASE SAVES MONEY

Wheels of All Farm Vehicles Should Be Carefully Examined to Avoid Unnecessary Wearing.

When you hear the wheels of a wagon or any kind of farm machinery squeaking, be sure the squeaks cost the owner money, because the axles are being cut to pieces.

There is a great difference in axle grease and the only way to know which has the best adhesive qualities is by actual test. Cheap grease is generally dear.

Axle grease that quickly wears off increases the friction, this pulls the flesh off the team and flesh costs money.

The wheels of all vehicles and machinery should be carefully examined often. It will not do to be caught with dry wheels when away from home or in the midst of a busy day in the harvest field.

New Breed of Dairy Cattle.

A new breed of dairy cattle known as the Illawarra breed has been developed in New South Wales. It was obtained by crossing shorthorns, longhorns, Devons and Ayrshires. This new breed of cattle has become a favorite for dairying in the Illawarra district, New South Wales, though it is hardly known in America.

Corn Fed Poultry.

The heavy feeding of corn to poultry, especially where there is an absence of good, hard, sharp grit, will bring on bad cases of indigestion, which in many ways resembles cholera. About 92 cases out of a hundred of reported cholera victims are cases of indigestion. The end is the same, but the latter disease is not contagious.

LUCK IN SPECULATION

SOME REMARKABLE INSTANCES ON RECORD.

Small Fortunes Have Been Made From the Purchase of Wrecks That at the Time Seemed to Have No. Value.

Experts laughed when a well-known firm of Melbourne grain merchants paid £368 for the wreck of the Jean Bart, a French barque which, while on a voyage from Antwerp to Wallaroo, ran aground in Spencer gulf, South Australia. Her hold quickly filled, and it was soon impossible to float her. For two months she was in this condition, and the owners instructed the captain to sell the wreck by auction. A number of Austrian firms sent representatives to inspect the wreck, but none of them thought it worth while to buy. The merchants in question, however, made a bid and the wreck was sold to them for £368.

They engaged a diver to inspect the vessel. It was then discovered that the damage to the barque was slight, and that a hole about a foot in diameter, which had been torn in the bows, could easily be repaired. The work was begun at once, the water pumped out of the hold, and ultimately the vessel was towed to Melbourne, where it was found that the value of the ship and cargo was over £12,000.

This instance of lucky speculation in a wreck is by no means isolated. Some time ago a man bought a steamer which was wrecked off Yorkshire for £300. It was not a big ship, says the Standard, but she had a valuable cargo on board, and it was feared that the bottom had been ripped out of the ship and the cargo lost. In the cargo was a large number of pictures. Few firms cared to touch the business, and the underwriters let it go for the sum stated. But the ship was inspected and raised and then, to the surprise of everybody, the cargo was discovered to be little the worse for its immersion. The property sold for nearly £10,000.

Another lucky speculation was that of a man who bought a ship which was wrecked with a valuable cargo off the coast of Africa. She had been given up as hopeless, and he secured her for a mere song. Ultimately he succeeded in raising her and towing her to Gibraltar. The ship is still sailing under another name, and the owner has made a fortune out of the deal.

It is pointed out that there are a number of wrecks round the shores of Britain which would prove very profitable to anyone with facilities for raising them. The vast amount of iron and wood in some of the holds would pay for the cost of salvage. From the Lizard one can see quite a number of wrecks on the coast line, and it has often been suggested that if these were salved systematically a profitable business could be built up in this way.—London Tit-Bits.

Making Capital.

The New Reporter going to the telephone and ostentatiously starting the machinery)—Hello! Central! Let me have 2745 C, please. (A pause.) You Giddy little thing! No. I said twen-ty-seven. Twenty-sev— Hello! Is that 2745 C? Is Mr. Safgertees Devoy in the office? Will you tell him that Mr. Jefferson McAddister would like to speak with him? Yes, that's the name, McAddister, journalist.

The other reporters listen in awe-struck silence.)

The New Reporter—Is this really Mr. Devoy? My name is—— Ah, you recognize my voice? You perhaps remember that I interviewed you yesterday. What's that? Best report? Oh, thank you! You're very kind. I tried to make it so. Has anything turned up in regard to that case since noon? Well, sorry to trouble you. Eh? Dinner? You're extremely kind. At Sherry's? What? And a bottle? (Surging interest in the entire staff.) It's awfully kind of you. Well, say Tuesday, at eight. But really I—

City Editor (in his every-day voice)—I have some work here, McAddister, when you are quite through talking to yourself. That telephone has been disconnected since morning.—Puck.

Very Simple.

The great detective climbed through the kitchen window, followed by his faithful assistant.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, surveying the surroundings, "I find that his wife is away!"

"How long has she been away?" asked his ally.

"Exactly 30 days."

"And how on earth do you know that?"

"By the unwashed dishes and cups and saucers. There are 90 of each in all, which shows that he used three a day for 30 days, and left them for her to wash when she comes home—same as we all do. Simplest thing in the world."

'Twas Up to Her.

Mr. and Mrs. Nagg were visiting friends in Brooklyn, and several times were importuned to visit, before they left, Greenwood cemetery, called the most beautiful burial grounds in the country.

But one thing or another hindered, and as their visit drew to a close, Mrs. Nagg said: "Henry, when are you going to take me to the cemetery?"

Mr. Nagg, who had not yet recovered from the effects of a scolding administered not long before, moodily replied:

"With pleasure, my dear, whenever you're ready."

SATISFIED WITH HIS BARGAIN

Dramatic Press Agent Holds Confidence in Barber for Somewhat Peculiar Reason.

Frank P. Morse, dramatic press agent, met Ralph A. Graves, the dramatic critic, in New York one morning. They went down to a barber shop.

Graves heard Morse talking to the barber, whose voice indicated that he was at least eight feet tall and in the best of health.

"Now, said the barber, "your hair's falling out. What you want to do is to have it shingled and singed and then treated with crude oil, ending up with an electric massage and a few other jolts."

Morse, who has a suit of hair like a cluster of copper wire, inquired as to the cost.

"One dollar and ninety cents," replied the barber.

"Proceed," said Morse, settling back.

When Graves got out of the chair and took a look at Morse's barber he rushed over to the victim's chair.

"Why, Frank," he expostulated, "that man who's treating your hair is as bald as an egg and you're throwing away a dollar and ninety cents."

"Is he bald?" asked Morse dreamily.

"Not a hair on his head," replied Graves.

"Well," explained the victim, gently, "that's why he knows how not to make my hair fall out."—Popular Magazine.

Then He Escaped.

"It's curious," said Brown, "how coming events cast their shadows before them. I'll wager a fiver none of you gentlemen can guess what was the last thing played on the organ at the time of the fire."

"'The Lost Chord,'" suggested Smith.

Brown shook his head.

"'Dies Irae,'" said the classical gentleman.

Brown shook his head again.

"What was it, then?" asked the practical member.

Brown got up, reached for his hat, and went to the door. Then he replied:

"The hose!"

DISFIGURED WITH PIMPLES

R. F. D. No. 2, Box 46, Matthews, Ga.—"For three years or more I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. At first my face would itch and burn and then the pimples would break out. They looked almost as if I had measles, causing great disfigurement. They would make my face very red and sore. Then they festered and came to a head and large boils would come on my chin and nose.

"I also had dandruff which caused my scalp to itch and burn. It itched and burned so that I had to scratch it until it was irritated. The dandruff scaled off and showed plainly in my hair. It also caused my hair to break off and become very thin. I used several remedies which did not cure and gave but little relief. After I received a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment I began using them according to directions. I secured two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, which cured me perfectly." (Signed) Miss Willie M. Walker, July 31, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.

He stopped before a blind peddler and bought a pencil, putting five pennies into the man's hand.

"How do you know these are cents I've given you?" asked the purchaser.

"Well, sir, I can distinguish the touch of cents by my sense of touch," was the blind man's prompt reply.

Harry F. Hubler of Pine, a railroad man, was in Centre Hall for a few days.

It was a delightful Saturday evening and Sunday, the first in a long while. Monday morning came in cloudy, with a snow squall mixed in it, and then followed sunshine, and plenty of wind.

If you are interested in the Y P. R you can help its members by contributing stands, games, tables, etc, which are very much in demand. The Saturday evening meetings are being well attended. The room is at all times in charge of a member of the W. C. T. U.

What are you thankful for ?

Life isn't all music, in spite of the fact that it is largely made up of sharps and flats.

COURT PROCLAMATION.

Whereas the Honorable Ellis L. Orvis, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the Forty-ninth Judicial District, consisting of the county of Centre, having issued his precept bearing date the 13th day of October, 1913, to me directed for holding a Court of Common Pleas, Orphans Court, Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace, Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery, in Bellefonte, for the county of Centre, and to commence on the being the 1st day of December, 1913, and to continue two weeks.

Notice is hereby given to the Coroner, Justices of the Peace, Aldermen, and Constables of said county of Centre, that they be then and there in their proper persons at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of the 1st, with their records, inquisitions, examinations, and their own remembrances, to do those things which to their office appertains to be done and those who are bound in recognizances, to prosecute against the prisoners that are or shall be in jail of Centre county, be then and there to prosecute against them as shall be just.

Given under my hand at Bellefonte, the 20th day of October in the year of our Lord, 1913, and the one hundred and thirty-sixth year of the Independence of the United States of America.

ARTHUR B. LEE, Sheriff.

Sheriff's Office,
Bellefonte, October 20, 1913.
